COXEY AT WASHINGTON

His Weary Walkers Encamped in the Suburbs.

VISITED BY MANY STATEMEN

The Commonwealth Leader Still Declares That He Will Hold a Meeting on the Capitol Steps, Despite Official Prohibition.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Citizen James Bleecker Coxey, commander-in-chief of the Good Roads Army of the Commonwealth, standing on a wagon in the center of the Brightwood Driving park, waving aloft his Alpine hat to one of the most cosmopolitan and extensive audiences ever gathered in Washington, announced yesterday afternoon that the greatest march of the nineteenth century had been accomplished.

The march had been accomplished, at Olin's Garage said, but its ending was in political contrast to the meaning of the thousands of attempts that its project had prepared. Three hundred and a half of miserably dressed, woe-begone, grubstakings, out at the elbow, and run down at the heels specimens of humanity, who bore a striking, though perhaps undeserved, resemblance to the familiar genus tramp, marched into the park, led by a wretched apology for a band, pitched tents and stretched themselves in the sun. Thousands from the city turned out to make a holiday of it and inspect the curious spectacle. They looked to the word of the Marial Coxey and the Popular speech of Coxey. That they turned toward home is a mass of mental wonderment at the whole queer performance, the perseverance with which it had been carried out and the notoriety it had attained.

They clung of dust overhanging the two roads leading to Brightwood from the city all day long, and they were plowed with more travel than customarily beats them in months. Two endless processions swept along the roads all day, with such variety of travelers as had never turned out in Washington since war times. There were proletarian, artisans, bowing along with satanic, representative and their families, swells of the foreign legion, maimed, with their legs encased in long riding boots, article of trade with closely wrapped mule, darkies with their drabbed mules hitched to the most unique vehicles, mule which they had peddled friends and neighbors of their own color, stages and grooms' wagons carrying people parties of young people, tally-ho's with skimmers packed to the top, pedestrains young and old, plodding through the three miles of dust, and perched upon the roofs. The crowds were in reverent gaiety, for the good roads of Washington make it the wheelmen's paradise.

Every horse and wheel vehicle in the city had apparently been pressed into the service, while the little trolley railway line, which was built for the benefit of suburban residence, was ridiculous in adequacy to the demands upon it. All the cars were hidden under the people who clattered over them, clinging to the windows and perched upon the roofs. The same expanse which runs the electric road was Brightwood park, and it was remarked that the company could well afford to keep the Commonwealthers all summer, paying their expenses, and fat dividends, would aye.

Living the entrances to the park enterprising colored citizens had established their booths for traffic in gingerbread and sweetened water, which passed current under the guise of lemonade. The semiblance to a fair layout was further enforced by the thumbtacks and shell men walking about the outskirts of the crowd. But when the people poured into the park exclusively the suggestion of citrus day was full blown. In the center of the half mile race track clapped the canvas enclosures which encircled the quarters of the Commonwealth army.

Half a dozen weather beaten army tents stood about the camp drawn circle, with several others covered cambric wagons. The tents and wagons were covered with black painted drabs, legends which were a queer mixture of "Good Roads," "Industrialism" and "Finance." The great leather horses with shaggy fetlocks were tethered about the wagons. Near by were fastened two large American flags, and the emblematic banners were piled on the ground.

Most interesting of the sights, however, were the human elements, the rank and file of the Commonwealth army. The men who had borne the heat of the mud and storm and cold. They were the mass unique and intangible aggregation ever brought together. Some of them were at work about the tents and wagons, others carried upon the damp ground, mauling great chunks of bread and many more stretched sleeping in the sun with their heads pillowied on rolled up coats. Fairly drawn indolence about surveying the men, commenting upon their appearance, with no apparent realization of the fact that the subjects of their comments were human beings who could hear and understand them.

The question which has most agitated Washington of late was propounded to Coxey by the Associated Press reporter. "What do you intend to do when the police prevent you from holding your meeting in the Capitol grounds?" he demanded. "No one will prevent me," replied the sonorous Narrator, with great promptness. "Does not the constitution guarantee the right to和平ably assemble and petition Congress?"

"But there is a police regulation passed by congress, which forbids assembly and meetings on the Capitol grounds, and the police will stop you every if it attempts to implement."

"The constitution was written before any police regulation," replied the general. "If they come in conflict with the constitution they are bad. We stand squarely upon the constitution, that is our platform."

"How do you intend to enforce your rights?"

"There is but one way, by an appeal to the courts. We will go before the highest court in the land, if necessary. Meanwhile we will walk here in Washington to take all measures. If the courts refuse us our rights there will be a revolution. I do not advocate revolution, nor do I desire it, but it will be irresistible, and it will be the greatest revolution of history if the American people are once thoroughly aroused."

The conversation of Mr. Coxey was broken into by a trumpet call which summoned the choir of the army. Following Carl Brown, the choir of a dozen voices in the army floated out to the platform wagon, which has borne the remarkable allegorical panorama of the curse of National banks. Brown slipped into the wagon. Beside him stood a stalwart man holding aloft a lantern with the legend "The Kingdom of Heaven (on Earth)." It was recovered in all the towns in Rhode Island through which they passed. A soliciting committee collected an ample supply to feed all.

The New England Commonwealthers. NEW YORK, April 29.—Morrison J. Swift, Commonwealther, spent a quiet Sunday here in comfortable quarters and were supplied with food including a hot dinner which was prepared for them in Knights of Labor hall. At a public meeting in the opera house his was collected, which Commander Swift said was a larger amount than was recovered in all the towns in Rhode Island through which they passed. A soliciting committee collected an ample supply to feed all.

The Garibaldi Contingent. CINCINNATI, O., April 30.—The Galvin contingent of the Coxey army, who were driven from a captured train by militia on Saturday arrived here Saturday midnight. They are well supplied with food by the trades unions, and about $500 in cash has been collected. They will leave here today.

Assassinated and Murdered. ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 30.—Louis Brown, a 16-year-old girl, was carrying with three white boys and a negro, Lawrence Spiller. When she was returning home Spiller criminally assaulted and murdered her. Spiller was arrested. His element is very great, and the local military is under arms to preserve the peace.

English for the Cathedral. LEXINGTON, Ky., April 30.—Rev. Dr. William White, of the Cathedral church, furnished the following information: Major General Oliver, the recent representative from Iowa, was at the head of another group of congressmen "Mr. Anna L. Dugay of Kansas, the French speaker wood with baby in her arms, and Louis Lefebvre, gorged in their satin, with long braids hanging down their backs, and red bottom of the nobility on their skull caps, were two Orientals from the Chinese legion."

The speech of Carl Browne was a strange mixture of theology and finance. He acknowledged that he was a crank because it took a crank to move anything, as he said. A crowd of men perched in the judges stand of the race course led the cheer, and whenever Browne recited a诗 they clanged the sharp tongued bell there with great effect. Browne's speech was listened to with impatience, because the people wanted to have Coxey.

Yesterday the general surrounded up awkwardly upon the wagon and was introduced to be warned his hat to each quarter of the compass. He was proceeding to unbosom himself of some eloquent periods upon the construction of the governments of the nineteenth century when some skeleto bawled out "Where's a few $10,000."

This interruption was not dignified with a reply. The citizen launched into his description of the millions of starving unemployed, shouting: "We'll pay here all salaries until Congress takes action on these bills. I believe they will be passed in two weeks. You only have to pick up the papers to see what desperate straits these men are owing to to get to Washington. Look at the trains that have been stalled. I don't believe in individuals No. far from it. It makes no difference if they don't get here Tuesday. We will go to the Capitol steps and make our demands and come back here to camp and wait. This revolutionary spirit of '76 is making the money lenders tremble now. Congress takes two years to vote on anything if left to itself. Twenty millions of people are hungry and cannot wait two years to eat. Four million men idle for nine months. That's what Grover Cleveland has cost this country." Thurman and Tom Reed have helped him, so the Republicans have not got the bone of the Democrats.

In this strain Coxey talked for half an hour. Every thrust at the plutocrats was accompanied by the clang of the bell, and the crowd which listened was a constantly changing but altogether an attentive one. Meantime the army inside the canvas had been disposing of a miserable meal. The men lined up before a commissary wagon, from which squares of the bread, which they call "puff," was dealt out to them. This they took over to the camp site, where several bags lots of uninviting looking meat had been concocted. Each worker received a big spoonful of the stew on his bread, and they sat about on the ground gnawing this ration in a famished way.

Although there is much humor about the affair, the sight of such a Sunday dinner and of the reasons why the men fought over it was not a humorous one. It was pitiful, too, to see the unhappy-looking wretches stretched out on the bare ground in the blinding sun, poorly clad, although all of them were clean shaven. A much more elaborate meal was prepared for the leaders in the headquarters tent. Some of the men had money, and purchased sandwiches but most of them stayed by the camp.

Visitors came until dark, inspected the camp, looked at Coxey, and some horses in the stable, and went home with whatever it is that may be interested of lawless outbreak from the men pretty thoroughly quelled. The ate recipe for the day, and to bed all.

General Coxey came into the city last night and registered at one of the best hotels. He declared that his army will march to the Capitol tomorrow, hold its great mass meeting on the steps, and demand the passage of his bills and then return to camp to wait until they become law.

Koxey's Rough Experience.

NEW YORK, April 30.—Koxey's Industrial army marched twenty-seven miles Saturday night without food, and were held by the police all day yesterday. In a distance of 12 miles, two miles out of the city, as his men had to march through Delafield, to a deserted factory, saying that his men had to be fed before they marched farther. General Coxey was out forty hours of sleep, which were divided among them in Franklin K-17th westward, and the men, weak from hunger, marched to the factory, a mile and a half east of the capital, where they were well provided with food and shelter. As they passed through the city, which were lined with spectators, a crowd kept and sympathized with them and demanded the audience. Notwithstanding their harsh experience there have been less than twenty-five deaths. Coxey says, he will remain here until a train is furnished.

GREAT HOTEL BURNED.

The Historic St. Charles, at New Orleans, Wiped Out.

FIVE PEOPLE LOSE THEIR LIVES

Or Three One Has Jumped from a Fourth Story Window to the Street—The Hotel Was One of the Largest and Most Somewhat in the Country.

NEW ORLEANS, April 30.—A few minutes before 11 o'clock Saturday night fire broke out in the kitchen of the St. Charles hotel. A large audience was leaving the St. Charles theater at the time, and in a few minutes the wildest excitement prevailed in the street. Guests and employees of the hotel were running out of the burning building half-dressed and half-clothed. They could be snatched up in their hurried flight from their sleeping rooms and it soon became apparent that half 500 were accounted.

Everything that is possible is being done to alleviate the distress, and the government is spending money with unswerving hand to the purchase of provisions. Many rich Groves have contributed largely for the relief of their countrymen, but notwithstanding this public and private assistance there is bound to be much suffering among the poor. The people of Atlanta have fled to the hills for safety. In this district there was a continuous series of shocks. In seven hours and a half 500 were counted.

When the earth movements began and the houses began to totter and fall many of the inhabitants who were unprepared for everything except their personal safety. They ran wildly from the doomed city and sought a firm standing place on the hills that rise behind the town. The earth quaked and trembled and quavered. Great fissures opened in the earth over an area of ten square kilometers.

Much damage was done along the shore by a series of waves which encroached upon the coast for a distance of twenty miles.

A number of houses were destroyed by the waves, and there was no doubt that lives were also lost.

Deep subterranean mumbleings and roars resembling the sound of cannon fired at a distance continue to be heard, and the people are in mortal fear that other and more severe shocks may follow.

Negroes Working Under Guard.

DRYDEN, Tenn., April 30.—Rev. Dr. William White, of the Cathedral church, furnished the following information: Major General Estelle has ordered that English be the language of all cathedral services in America. The order applies particularly to Louisville, nearly all of the cathedral services having but one English service.

One Coke Production.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Special Agent Joseph D. Webb, of the United States geological survey, has made a report concerning the production of coke in the Appalachian region during 1893. The total production was 2,450,000 short tons, against 12,000,000 in 1892. The large reduction is due to the depression in the blast furnace industry. Pennsylvania retains first rank, as a coke state. Alabama stands second, while Illinois gave the smallest product.

Another Mystery Murder.

BIRMINGHAM, N. J., April 30.—Michael Cody, a white man, was killed Saturday night on Delaware Avenue with a bullet hole in his temple, the police are without a clue and are completely baffled. There is no kind of doubt that Cody was a man who was very fond of the society of young married women. It seems to be almost a moral certainty that Cody was either killed by a woman with whom he had trifled or by the husband or lover of some woman with whom he had had dealings.

Another New Brunswick Murder.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., April 30.—Michael Cody, a white man, was killed by George Brown, a negro, in City Hall Saturday night. Cody with a number of companions spent a portion of the evening in the negro quarter, and during that time visited the home of Lillie Souder, who accepted him. They were followed from the house by half a dozen negroes, and a fight ensued in which Brown drew a pistol and fired, the bullet striking Cody squarely between the eyes. Brown was arrested.

Valuable Live Stock Created.

BIRMINGHAM April 30.—Fire from some unknown cause broke out in the barn on the estate of John S. Gittings, estate treasurer of Maryland, on the Liberty road, three miles from Birmingham, at 10 o'clock last night. The barn and several outbuildings were destroyed, with six valuable horses, comprising Mr. Gittings' coaching team, the most valuable in the state, ten cows, a number of carriages, horses, etc. lost.

COL. INGERSOLL'S LECTURE.

"What Must We Do to Be Saved," to be His Subject.

Col. Robert G. Ingersoll, the most fervid and natural of American orators now living, will appear on the lecture platform of this city at the Casino Theatre, Sunday evening, May 6. On this occasion he will deliver his celebrated unorthodox lecture, "What Must We Do to Be Saved?" Colonel Ingersoll has a plan of salvation for the human race which he considers more efficacious than that offered by Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, and he makes an exposition of it in this lecture. The amiable and eloquent Colonel holds that morality does not need the backing of creed, and his effusions are invariably interesting, amusing and stirring, whatever be their value as against theology. No person interested in the great questions of the day, and no lover of oratory should fail to hear him.

SOWING OATS ON THE HOME FARM
Sowers of Different Nationalities Show How Oats Is Sown in Their Countries.
From the Walden Citizen.

A sight not often witnessed in this part of the country was to be witnessed, last Thursday, at the Home Farm. A dozen men were sowing oats broadcast and a dozen teams were at the same time harrowing. It happened that among the sowers several nationalities were represented, and some of them undertook to show how oats were sown in their respective countries, over the sea. Richard Taney reminded those who had come from the Emerald Isle of the curious method employed by the Irish. John Moraski got there upon all fours, and gave a grand exhibition of the way they put oats into German soil. Hile Hasbrouck during his twenty-six years residence in this country has learned the Yankee method and gave an exhibition of his skill in that work. It was an amusing affair all the way through, and the oats went under ground in great shape under the admirable management of Adam Wiley. The oats were sown in less than a day.

A BLOW AT WOMAN SUFFRAGE.
From the Albany Advertiser.

In speaking of the new Kansas ballot law, which requires that "the lower limbs of the voter as high up as the knees shall be visible from the outside while the voter is in the booth preparing his ticket, the lower part of the booth having been left open for that purpose," the Boston Globe is led to ask if this is a blow at woman suffrage.

A Good Record.

Derangements of the kidneys and liver lead to impoverishment of the blood, from which spring many troublous maladies that "never get well of themselves." If you have any such afflictions you cannot too speedily seek the aid of a potent medicine, and the safest you can employ is Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. Its efficacy has been demonstrated by thousands of cures performed in the practice of its discoverer long before it was put forth as a proprietary medicine. No more deservedly popular medicine was ever offered to the public and none has achieved, by its merit, greater popularity.

ILLEGAL FISHING IN THE WALLKILL
Reports that Large Catches of Black Bass Are Being Made, Though the Season Does Not Open Till May 30th.

It has been currently reported, during the past week, that large catches of black bass are being daily taken from the waters of the Wallkill River, in direct violation of the law that protects this fish. The bass season does not open until May 30th and there is a fine of $25 for each and every fish found in the possession of anyone during the closed season. It is also said that there are great quantities of these fish in the river, but that unless the unlawful slaughter is stopped at once, the law abiding angler will find very little sport when the season opens.

It seems strange that some effectual means of stopping violations of the fish and game laws cannot be devised. You seldom hear of a conviction for the offense anywhere in the State, except of men who are amply able to pay the fine imposed, a portion of which goes to the party securing the conviction. If a man is known to have no money to pay a fine and does not care whether he is locked up or not, his fishing and hunting excursions are not watched as closely as those of his more opulent neighbor and he can and does fish without fear of being molested. The laws should be enforced, or amended so as to make convictions easier, or they should be repealed altogether, for it is unfair and unjust to compel the honest, law abiding sportsman to wait until the day set apart, when he can lawfully pursue his favorite pastime, only to find that his more daring neighbors have had the best end of the sport in defiance of the law and without fear of detection.

WALDEN.

Slashed a Bicycle Tire—A Runaway—Museum—Personal and Local Notes.

Correspondence Argus and Mercury

—Aaron Cohen found, the other day, that the tire of his bicycle, which he usually leaves in front of his store, had been cut and punctured, so as to render it useless. If he discovers the perpetrator of the outrage it will be a costly job for the sneak.

—The people of Walden were treated to a little excitement, Thursday morning. While one of Geo. E. Andrew's clerks was driving near the gravel bank, the horse became frightened and ran away, passing through Main street and over the high bridge. After getting out a crowd on the east side, it made things lively on the west. Near Geo. Crist's blacksmith shop the vehicle was upset and badly broken. Some little damage was done to another wagon before the horse was captured.

—J. A. Flynn exhibited a ten cent museum in the Fowler building, Orange avenue, for two days, last week. He exhibited a mummified mother and child, said to be about 3000 years old, and in amazingly good state of preservation. They are claimed to be of the original Cliff dwellers of Colorado. He has visited Port Jervis, Elyenville and several other places. He went from here to Kingston. He will come down the river visiting Poughkeepsie, Newburgh, Matteawan and other towns. Those who saw the mummies were well satisfied.

—Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Brown, of New York, are visiting Mrs. Brown's mother in this village. —The store formerly occupied by T. E. Newkirk is being refitted and large plate glass windows are being put in. It will soon be occupied as a drug store.

—The Y. P. S. C. E., of the Reformed Church gave an entertainment and social in the lecture room, Friday evening.

—A grand musical will be given in the near future, and from the persons in charge of the affair, we are prepared to say it will be a fine affair.

—The gay young liverman, William Hill, has been driving a fine span of colts. They are but two years old and are well broken already.

—Arthur Croft has accepted a position in the Rider Engine Works as office boy.

—The woods are full of school children and their teachers, these few days, gathering wild flowers.

—The merchants here begin to tremble over the prospect of the proposed electric railroad from Newburgh. They will be forced to sell as cheap as the merchants in the city or close up.

—Case Lake has made his appearance on our streets. He has a nice large sprinkler.

—Readily mixed paints, best quality, $1.25 per gallon, at McMonagle & Rogers' drug store.

Instead he used sixteen sticks of the explosive, and the result was a terrific explosion. A portion of the casting weighing some 2,000 pounds descended upon the roof of James McIlvain's house, which stood 300 yards away. The house was wrecked complete to the cellar, and how the inmates escaped being crushed to death seems miraculous. A bed on the second floor, in which an infant was sleeping, was broken in twain. In the kitchen beneath Mrs. McIlvain was engaged washing dishes. She heard the noise, but had no time to move when the casting dropped upon the table, carrying it and dishes through the floor into the cellar. The woman was prostrated by fright, but otherwise was uninjured.

The men will lay the matter before congress.

PUBLISHERGEORGE H. THOMPSON. EDITOR
C. MACARDELL. ASSISTANT EDITOR

A. E. NYE, BUSINESS MANAGER

MONDAY, APRIL 30, 1894.

A very amusing cartoon in yesterday's World suggests that Washington might easily be saved from the threatened invasion of the Coxeyites by a barricade of soap.

The Buffalo police have no clue to the murderer of Montgomery Gibbs, the young lawyer who was shot down on Delaware avenue, Saturday night. There is little doubt that revenge or jealousy was the motive for the crime, and the mystery in which the whole affair is shrouded makes it one of the most startling crimes of recent years.

Gen. Weaver, the Populist candidate for President in 1892, has decided to remove from Iowa to Kansas, where the political atmosphere is more congenial. He is making a mistake. He was enough of a crank politically to be very conspicuous in Iowa, but in Kansas, where political vagaries run riot, he will be lost sight of among the thousands whose brains hatch wilder schemes of government than his is capable of.

Judge Calvin E. Pratt, of the Supreme Court, was stricken with paralysis at his home in Brooklyn, Saturday. His many friends in this country will be glad to know that he is in no immediate danger and that there has been a marked improvement in his condition since Saturday. It is probable, however, that if he recovers, his days of usefulness on the bench are over.

Des Moines, Ia., is in hard luck. Kelly's Industrial Army is camped within its borders, and its commander declares that it will stay there until transportation is furnished. The railroads will not allow the vagrants to ride free and the citizens will have to provide the necessary funds or have the army, which is now corralled by the police, as a permanent and most unwelcome addition to the town's population. As a means of exacting tribute, Kelly's threats of permanent residence are as effective, and quite as much to be dreaded as any threats that robber barons made.

Alderman Hilton, who introduced in Newburgh's Common Council the resolution asking the Legislature to amend the city charter so as to give women taxpayers the right to vote at tax elections, was one of the most ardent champions of the city hall project, which was defeated, Saturday, by the votes of women. It seems a little rough that the first use that the women of Newburgh made of the ballot should have been to turn down one of the champions of their rights, but this election was a matter of dollars and cents and besides there isn't much room for sentiment in politics.

The decision of Vice Chancellor Bird, of New Jersey, that the directors of the Star Rubber Company, which failed in 1891 for $800,000, must pay out of their own pockets $78,000, the amount of unearned dividends paid in the four years preceding bankruptcy, is a sample of Jersey justice that will commend itself to all. By the payment of dividends while the company was drifting towards ruin, its real condition was concealed, its worthless stock foisted on innocent parties, and obligations for a very large amount contracted. To require the payment of $78,000 by the directors is in effect imposing on them a heavy fine for their wrong doing.

The point that the slight reduction of four-tenths of a mill in the state tax rate shows that the reduction in the law in the Legislature practically amounts in appropriate to the expense by ex-Speaker Sulzer. It is not to be denied that the reduction is apparent rather than real, having been made by the systematic postponement of the expenditures of appropriations. Large sums have been appropriated with the proviso that they shall not be expended until after the tax for 1897 shall have been levied. Moreover, necessary appropriations for the proper maintenance and repair of State asylums, other public institutions and public works, etc., Mr. Sulzer says, been withheld, thus throwing over into next year expenses which due regard for public interests required should have been made this year. Another great and utterly useless expense has been saddled on the people of the State by the creation of over a score of "investigating committees," which are to sit during the recess, and which have been given roving commissions to inquire into all sorts of things.

from timber sales in the Adirondacks to the doings of New York policemen. These committees have carte blanche to employ counsel, stenographers and sergeants-at-arms, to go where they please, to eat, drink and be merry, and the State is to settle the bills. When the final reckoning is made it will be found that the accidental Republican Legislature of 1891, instead of saving in expenditures and reducing the tax rate increased both expenditures and the tax rate.

THE SENSIBLE VIEW.

WOMAN'S SENSITIVE ORGANISM
Does Not Permit Her to Do What Men Do, and She Ought Not to Try.(ORIGINAL TO OUR LEADERS)
You might as well know that you have an wonderfully sensitive and peculiar organ. You ought to know that from the moment the girl is changed into a woman, the matter of first physical importance to her is the regularity with which nature purifies her system. That all through life this is of the very first importance to her, and that neglect in this direction means misery in every direction.

Stop and reason out what happens when nature is balked in its efforts. The blood takes up the poisonous particles, carries them to the lungs, and decay follows. It carries them to the heart, and before long the organ is weakened, and your courage and strength vanish. It carries them to the brain, and before long the wildest fancies run riot, you think you have every known disease.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the one remedy whose power over this killing disease is acknowledged throughout the world.

It destroys poisonous germs, strengthens the system, strengthens the womb, and makes a strong, happy woman out of a physical wreck.

Mrs. J. A. Rice, of Florence, Ky., whose portrait we are permitted to publish, is only one of many thousands who owe their health to the Vegetable Compound, and are doing all they can to help other women to believe that the same health and happiness will come to them with the use of Mrs. Pinkham's medicines. She says:

I suffered eight years from woman's early troubles. I could find no permanent relief until, one year ago, I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Relief then came with it almost immediately, and at this time I am a well woman.

I absolutely know, not only by my own experience, but by others also, that it is a harmless and sure remedy for irregularities, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness of the stomach, sick headache, and female complaints generally.

WORK AND STRIKES.

From the London Economic.

The great works for the extension of Vienna have been commenced at last. During all the winter and early spring there was a continual cry for work. The unemployed, many thousands, assembled to discuss their grievances, and regret was expressed on all sides that the extensive works planned for Vienna were delayed so long. Now they have at last been taken in hand, and thousands of hands eager for work have been employed, and what does the reader think is the first thing announced?

A great strike of all the branches of the building trade. The brickmakers are striking to the number of 3,000, and their stoppage of work is to be the suitable introduction to a strike of all builders, masons, carpenters, laborers. The demand is for beginning work at seven instead of six o'clock in the morning, not because of any special grievance or hardship suffered by any particular class.

It seems impossible that the men who, with their families, have been out of work all winter, and have suffered privations of all kinds, should put their heart in this strike. It is merely the work of the leaders, who, although several strikes lately have been unsuccessful, wish to show to what excellent discipline they have trained the great army of working men and women.

ANSWER

This image is a high-contrast, black-and-white graphic. It features a dense, abstract pattern of horizontal and vertical lines, creating a complex and textured appearance. The pattern is composed of various line thicknesses and some small, irregular shapes, giving it a stylized, possibly architectural or technical, look. The overall effect is like a heavily processed photograph or a specific type of abstract art.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

Dr. G. C. Osgood,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria in stead of the aperient, nostrums which are destroying their loved ones by forming opium, morphine, sooting syrup and other harmful agents down their throats, thereby sealing them to premature grave."

Dr. J. F. Kennerly,
Concord, Ark.

H. A. Ammons, M. D.,
112 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the name of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

SEARCHING FOR A WIFE.
Nominally Third of the Cleverest Queen of the Year.

He made up his mind he ought to marry and she was about as well suited for a good match girl for a wife.

He saw a young lady on a crowded street, and he was so attracted to the scene, and he thought "She is prettier. I like her for my wife."

He met a young lady on the street who was a spic and span girl in the day, and to the music "I like her with unchanged features more and more."

He was introduced to a young lady as a girl who was not over-sized, and yet who were a match that was beside the naked eye, and he thought "I like modesty and taste. That's a good combination."

He met behind a young lady in a theater who took off her hat and let him get a glimpse of the stage, and he thought "Modesty for others is a great point I must find out who she is."

He stood behind a young lady in a drug store who did not pay over everything in sight and keep one Clark busy for an hour that she might buy a spool of thread, and he thought, "She must really be a treasure."

He was accidentally pushed against a young lady in a crowded corridor who did not stare at him and mutter, "Awkward brute," when he apologized, and he thought, "There's a gem."

He noticed a young lady at a street corner in the business part of the city waiting for a car, and he could hardly believe his eyes. He boarded the same car and followed her to her home.

Two days later, after he had secured an introduction, he said: "A few days ago I saw you as a crowded street corner waiting for a car."

"Yes," she said in some surprise. "You stood at one side of the crossing where you would not be in the way of people who wished to cross the street."

"I always do that," she said. "Queen of your size?" he exclaimed impulsively. "Beneath light in the darkness of women's ways, shining star of progress toward a better conception of the creatures of city life! Will you be mine?"

The answer is of no particular consequence in this tale. She could have him if she wished, and that is the main point it is intended to bring out.—Chicago Tribune.

Straight from Headquarters.

She—You know where the road to a woman's heart is.

He—No, tell me. Why I only succeeded in getting it back from the older girls to her age—like.

The Wanted Time.

"Will you be my wife?" That was the question he had asked her.

It is a common question which has been asked many times, and many men have had to give it up.

"I want have time to reply," she said.

"How much time will you require?"

"Really I don't know. There are several of you men yet disposed of, but I hope to clean up all my unclaimed business before the year is half over. Suppose you come now—about the middle of June."

"Well, I have been between a set of teeth, as to what comes of a good home, with a woman to her own right. And the girl I wanted can hardly be a card the broker presented to a sister sister and told her to show the girl up—dreadful Free Price."

SHOTS HERE AND THERE.

AN "ARGUS" MAN OFF DUTY AIMED AT SEVERAL SUBJECTS.

Knocked Out of Her Shoes—A Letter Carrier's Daily Tramp—The Science of Boiling Potatoes—Prof. Tooker, Who—A "Worm-Hole Borer."

A gentleman who was on the N.Y. &amp; W. train that killed Barbara Bender at Crystal Lake, Wednesday evening, says that when the body was picked up the woman's shoes were missing, having been torn from her feet by the force of the blow which the engine struck her. A brakeman on the train to whom he spoke of this incident said that in most cases where a person is struck by a train running at full speed as was the case in this instance, the shoes are torn from the feet and are sometimes found at a considerable distance from the body.

A reporter asked one of the Middle-town letter carriers, a day or two ago, how many miles he was required to travel in making his daily deliveries and collections. He said that he had attempted to make a calculation and as near as he could figure it, he walked twelve miles every day on his straight route, making no allowance for trips through yards from the streets, climbing stairs, or in crossing streets, as he is required to do many times every day, all of which would increase the distance travelled several miles. The carrier also added that his walk by no means the longest route in Middletown, but would probably be a fair average.

New conditions create new wants and new wants create men to supply them. The craze for antique furniture has led to the manufacture of modern antiques which it is hard to distinguish from the genuine and in a recent suit an interesting bit of testimony was given as to the care that is taken to give an appearance of age to latter day imitations. A witness on taking the stand described himself as a "worm hole borer" and further questioning developed the fact that he was an expert in the art of boring holes in imitation of the very old oak furniture and had so much work to do that he was in receipt of a very comfortable income.

An English scientist, after careful experiments, has found that when potatoes are boiled with their skins on but three per cent. of their nutritive quality is lost, and that when boiled after having been peeled the loss is fourteen per cent. These figures are rather calculated to upset the theory, which Mrs. Boer, of cooking school fame delights to expound, to the effect that potatoes possess no nutritive qualities; that it would be a waste of time to eat them if they were not "filling," and that potato-eating fills asylums with maniacs. People have, however, come to look on potatoes as a necessary part of every dinner and will probably continue to take chances on insanity until something is found cheap enough and palatable enough to take the place of potatoes; so it may be well enough to remember the figures of the English scientist and retain as much of the nutritive elements as possible by boiling them with their jackets on.

WOMEN AT THE POLLS

They Help Defeat Newburgh's City Hall Scheme—Scenes and Incidents of the Election.

The taxpayers of Newburgh, on Saturday, refused to vote an additional $50,000 for the alteration of the Bazzoni building into a city hall. The proposition was voted down, there being 600 ballots against and 254 for the appropriation. This was the first appropriation meeting at which women were permitted to vote, and of the 864 votes cast 230 were cast by women. Mrs. Crawshaw was the first woman to vote and Mrs. J. F. Rittenber, wife of the editor of the Telegram, was the second. Nearly, if not all, of the women, voted against the proposition. There were many interesting scenes witnessed at the polls.

One woman who came to vote found that the assessors had in some way left her name off the roll.

"That's only one vote against it lost," she said, "but I'll make up for it."

She went quickly away and brought six other women to the polls, all of whom voted as she would have voted.

Another woman said: "We have at last obtained our rights, and you'll find that we shall not be slow in exercising them."

"I don't want your ticket," said another woman to a worker at the polls. "I have one here I'm going to vote, and it's against this scheme, too."

A bank director escorted another woman in, and when she was asked to fold up her ballot, she exclaimed: "It don't make any difference. I'd as soon vote it open as any other way. There it is; I don't care who sees it."

At one time there were twenty-three ladies in line awaiting their turn to vote, and one woman, who was opposed to the appropriation, brought in her own carriage forty of her sex to the polls. Men who have been at the polls all day long at all kinds of elections were gazed to see how the women turned out and with what determination and courage they approached the ballot box. One of the surprising features of the election was the class of women who came to vote. Many of them came in their own carriages and were the wives of leading lawyers, ministers and merchants. Many came with their husbands or other male escorts, but none of them seemed to show the least timidity.

The Register which had been sued for libel by Alderman Kelley and Major Weston for the publication of articles against the appropriation, which the complainants say accused them of having a financial interest in the scheme, posted a bulletin on the court house where the election was held, announcing the beginning of the suits, and it is believed that this may have increased the vote against the proposition.

Mr. Shrewd Face.

A youthful looking man, and one with a most interesting cast of countenance, is Senator Arthur B. German, of Maryland, Cleveland's shrewd adviser during his first presidential term. The face and brief biography of Senator German appear in "America's Greatest Men and Women," as do the photographs and brief biographies of all the men prominent to-day in the affairs of the country. It is a record of to-day, a splendid collection of recent photographs and the story of the acts, up to date, of those whose portraits are presented. It affords a curious study, as well as a wonderful book of constant reference for intelligent people. There is no other work like it. It appears in sixteen parts, of sixteen pages each, upon each page a splendid portrait, 10 by 14 inches in dimensions. Send an Argus or Men's Cury coupon, accompanied by ten cents, to the office of the Argus or Men's Cury and secure this splendid work. There is none other like it, and it can be obtained in no other way.
